THE CRUSHED TRAGEDIAN.

LENGTH, 505 FEET.

COPYRIGHT 1908

Mr Dandaly after showing some of his art to a theatrical manager is engaged. He begins his engagement as Mark Anthony which also ends his engagement. He is made to ride the rails and his ardor is cooled in a nearby pond. While walking the ties, he takes a rest when a train comes and gives him a lift. He lands in a coal pile from where he emerges with uncrushed spirit. Next he appears as a ghost among colored folks dinner party where he has all his own way.

Tired and hungry he comes to a farm house. The women folks are delighted with his art while the men folks have no use for "them actors."

Next Mr. Dandaly drops into a picnic party.
